Ed. Fairbanks Passes Suddenly

Ed. Fairbanks, aged 69 and an old times of Raymond, passed away Tuesday forenoon at the home here from heart trouble. He had a bad attack last week but seemed to get over it and was down town toward the end of the week. Monday night he was stricken again and the Doctor was called and gave him some relief and had planned on taking him to Lethbridge Tuesday morning. Another attack came just before the doctor arrived and Ed. passed away while the Doctor was in the house.

Deceased came here in the early days of Raymond with the family, there being six boys and two girls. He never married and for a number of years has been employed by the town. Two brothers Miles of Barnwell and Czar of Raymond, and Mrs. Lamarr, a sister, survive him in Raymond, the other members of the family having moved back again to Utah. Ed. was a popular and good-natured man and will be missed by a wide circle of friends, besides his kinfolk.

The funeral services were held in the Second Ward chapel this afternoon and the speakers were J. S. Anderson, Arthur Dahl and J. H. Walker who spoke of the life of deceased and of the doctrine of the resurrection and life after death. Bishop Walker had charge of the services, which were well attended. Jos. McLean was in charge of the choir, and also sang a solo, and the interment in the local cemetery was in charge of Christensen Bros. of Lethbridge.

We extend our sympathy to the bereaved members of the Fairbanks families, all of whom are mourning the passing of Ed.

Mrs. Boyd Lybbert spent the week-end with friends in Magrath.

Wm. A. Anderson was in Magrath Wednesday signing up students for the Youth Training school which opens here Monday next.

Drifted roads have brought their worries to local motorists and truck drivers. However, in most cases all of them have got through after patience and labor.

Lee Brewerton was in Lethbridge Wednesday, and spent three hours getting home leaving Lethbridge at 1 and arriving here at 4 p.m. He said eleven trucks were on the road stuck in the snow drifts.

Owing to a broken axle the Greyhound Bus did not arrive in Town on Wednesday till 11:30 p.m. He left fifteen minutes later for Cardston and arrived there at 3 a.m. in the morning.

If kids should spend the same number of years in school, why not require adults to spend the same time winning success? ! * ! * !

The recent special session of the Alberta House will cost taxpayers of the Province nearly $3,600 in extra fees to members of the House. Taxpayers are wondering if that much good was done.

Monday night next is Amateur night at the Capitol Theatre. If you have any ambitions in the line of entertaining get an application form and get in on this tryout. It will cost you nothing to try, and if you have that "it" that is necessary, it may land you in Hollywood. Read the ad.

Allen Milk River, Robert Chapman, Milk River, E. Oleson, Lethbridge, F. Saxon, Lethbridge, A. Luxton, Manyberries, H. Houlren Medicine Hat, and Mr. Morrison of Lethbridge.

Lord Nuffield, British motor manufacturer and philanthropist, announced this week he would provide every hospital in the British Empire "that might reasonably be expected to use a respirator" with an iron lung. A recent outbreak of infantile paralysis in Great Britain prompted the move, which it is expected will cost about $2,500,000. One thousand of the lungs are already in course of construction and work will be continued until the supply is made up.

Youth Training School Opens Monday

The first youth training school, organized and taught through the Extension Department of the University will open in Raymond, in the Second Ward Church next Monday. These schools have been carried on for the past two years, the cost being shared equally between the Province and the Dominion. Their popularity has been growing each year and this year there are three groups of teachers out holding schools of two weeks duration in rural communities. Raymond is fortunate in getting a three weeks course, the extra week being added because of the Xmas holidays, and two schools of two weeks each would bring them right up to Christmas.

W.J. Harper, was in town Saturday and met with a group at the Town Hall, those present voting unanimously to hold the school, and a committee of Arthur Garner, Lee Brewerton, S.B. Card and Rayo Woolf was appointed to handle the few necessary details in connection with the school. Wm. A. Anderson one of the instructors in the group who will conduct the local school spent the first part of the week here and assisted in obtaining registrations for the school.

Funeral Services For Tom Smith

Funeral services for the late Thomas Smith, aged 33, husband of Ruth Johnson Smith, were held in the Stake House, Raymond, at 1:30 Sunday afternoon with Bishop J. O. Hicken in charge. The choir was conducted by W. W. McMullin with Roi Stone at the organ.

Despite the disagreeable weather, a nice crowd was present, and the floral offerings were very beautiful. Pall bearers for the occasion were Hamp Witbeck, C. Winter, Lloyd MacPhee, Tom Burrows, Merlin Flexhaug and R. Pearson.

The hymns by the choir were: "Abide With Me," "Some time We'll Understand," "Jesus Lover of My Soul," with Thos. Roberts singing the solo and I Need Thee Every Hour. Elder Parley Litchfield offered the opening prayer, and Heber F. Allen of the Stake Presidency pronounced the benediction.

The first speaker was Elder C. R. Wing, Superintendent of the Sugar Factory, under whom deceased had worked for a long time. He stated that Tom was always found to be honest, reliable and absolutely dependable. Whenever a job was entrusted to him they knew it would be well done, and he felt this was the finest compliment that could be paid to a man. He spoke of Tom's long illness, and said that at times, when he was sick, ill clothed, and in no condition to work, he kept at it, because of his wife and family needing his support. He was always cheery, and even in his last illness in the hospital he was spreading cheer amongst the other patients and making the world brighter for them. He offered hope to the sorrowing family in the fact that they would all meet again after the resurrection.

Bishop Jas. H. Walker of the Raymond 2nd Ward spoke of the labors of deceased for the Knight Sugar Co. and stated that they had always had full confidence in the honesty and integrity of deceased, and said that he was an example to all in this, and that these were characteristics that the world needed badly today. He spoke of the Latter-day Saint doctrine of eternal progression, of life after death and of the eternity of the marriage covenant. This takes the sting away from death; it puts it in its true light as a stepping stone to future greatness and not the last curtain on an active and brilliant life as many believe. We have our work to do here in this school of experience, and when that work was done, then school was out for us, whether we were old or young. He assured the wife and children that they would meet their husband and father again in eternity, and that there the family unit would be carried on again, and that many a cherished dream would be carried out in circumstances much more pleasant and happy than we enjoyed here.

Bishop Hicken, on behalf of the family thanked all for their assistance during the long illness of deceased.

A nice cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where interment was made with Christensen Bros. in charge.

SHALL WE CURL

There is a wave on foot at present to erect and outfit a curling club in Raymond. Personally, we know nothing at all about curling. Those who have indulged in the sport, however, declare that it is interesting and that all who ever start it, never lose their interest in it.

According to the sponsors of the scheme, it will not be difficult to pay yearly rent in advance to erect the building and with used rocks at various points in the province for sale, they believe that scheme might be put over successfully. Contacts are being made this week to feel out prospective curlers and get their names on the dotted lines, and if the plans succeed work may be started in the course of the next week on the building. Here's hoping for success to the venture. We are not a curler, but perhaps if the bug bites, we will be, apparently no never knows until they try just how these things will appeal to them. From a civic standpoint, however, we should like to see it succeed. Every movement of this sort has a definite advantage to the town. It results in good advertising, in more people visiting the town, and generally creates the impression of progressive, up and coming town, and that is what we all like.

OVER THE DEEP BLUE SEA

At a time in the world's history when airplanes are so impressively associated with shadow of military conquest, any news of the commercial trend of aviation conveys somewhat of special interest. The American Express Airlines, Inc., announces that scheduled commercial flights across the Atlantic Ocean under the American flag will begin in the spring.

A new line of carlin transport is being opened from New York, Baltimore and Boston to Paris, via the Azores and Bordeaux, thence to Berlin, Rome, Athens and Alexandria. After some experimental flights carrying express and mail, the company will undertake to establish a non-stop New York to Paris passenger service. Such service is to be available twice a week from the North Beach Airport, at New York, and to be in effect—it is hoped—before the end of the World's Fair. Officials promise, however, that no compromise will be made with safety.

Thus, for the many who have been reading history in the making by Colonel Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart and other pioneers of aeronautical transport, there now unfolds some fairly definite prospect of retracing epochal trans-Atlantic flights under considerably improved conditions of convenience and adventure. While no time schedules are immediately at hand, it would seem reasonable to prognosticate that overseas travel by air will cut steamer sailing time by over half, after the most favorable flying lanes have been determined.

Entrancing speculations of various sorts are perhaps even now indicated; such as week-end view, ocean holidays and impulsive takeoffs for a bit of shopping in Paris. To typical home bodies, transoceanic flights may sound like a Jules Verne fantasy; but up-and-going persons may consider them as a further promising corroboration that it's a small world.

NEWS NOTES

C.O. Asplund, District Agriculturist of Cardston was here Monday and had dinner with the Rotarians at their weekly luncheon.

L. L. Pack was taken to the Hospital last week-end and returned home again Monday after an X Ray examination and a couple of day's treatment.

Dr. Madill was in Magrath Monday afternoon at the inquest over the sudden death of Alva Passey, returned man, who died on November 12, the day after Armistice. The report from Edmonton stated that there was strychnine in the stomach in sufficient quantity to kill several people. No suicide motive could be discovered and no clues found as to where it may have been obtained.

Our Edmonton Letter

(T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Nov. 21.—Conservation of oil and gas in Turner Valley field—the artificial restriction of production in order to preserve the market—continued to occupy the special session of the Alberta legislature this week with indications that the house would continue to sit for several days.

Some division of opinion mark debates in the house itself and in its committees on the subject. The fact that in the past members of the Social Credit side have jeered at artificial restriction of production of other products in various parts of the world—such as coffee in Brazil and grain in the United States when these products are needed in the world—made it difficult for some of the members to approve the conservation idea at home.

It was revealed during the hearings that the Alberta government is paying the chairman of its conservation board, W. F. Knodel, who was brought in from Texas, $1,000 a month for his work and that the other two board members are getting substantial salaries too.

Premier William Aberhart's announcement that he would go to Ottawa as soon as he could get away from the session in order to talk with the federal government about refunding of Alberta's $160,000,000 public debt, was an indication to observers here that the provincial government thinks that it is going to be able to get the buck of American finance—providing the Dominion government will take over the responsibility by guaranteeing the province's obligations.

Thus the province is going right back to the position in which it stood three years ago when the Dominion government offered to make provincial refunding possible providing the Alberta government allowed the Dominion to have some voice in affairs in which it would invest a huge sum. That is, the Dominion wanted to establish a loan council which would consist of one representative of the Federal government, one of the provincial government, and one of the Bank of Canada which would handle the refunding. Premier Aberhart and his government refused to give the Dominion any rights at all in the matter and therefore passed up Alberta's opportunity. It is indicated now that instead of keeping control of the refunding loans within Canada, the Aberhart government prefers to hand it over to American financiers, dealing through H. B. Reed and J. J. Sousa of Los Angeles. The government has refused so far to state openly the terms on which it is dealing.

Out-of-balance financing to the extent of a $2,768,066 surplus on income account was shown by a report on public accounts for the last fiscal year which ended March 31st last, in an analysis made public by Provincial Treasurer Solon Low after being requested by Conservative Leader D. M. Duggan. These accounts take no notice of capital and interest defaults of close to $20,000,000 during the past three years, on the province's fiscal obligations.

That report was accompanied by an official announcement that the government is going to hold back about $10,000 of the funds which it is supposed to grant to the Edmonton public school board.

The government has held back half its interest due on its own bonds held by the school board, with the result that the school board has lost more than $30,000 to the government. The board decided to establish the same treatment toward the government and pay it half interest on the school board bonds held by the government. But the government, scoffing at the Golden Rule, would accept none of the treatment it handed out; it told the school board that if it would not pay the government full interest, the government would hold back enough of the grant to make up the full amount. And that is being done. As Attorney-General, Premier Aberhart refused to reveal how much the government's Don Quixotic fight against windmills has cost Alberta taxpayers; he said that he could not tell the legislature how much the province has thrown away on court references on legislation and claims which obviously were ultra-vires—and which G. F. Powell, former "adviser" here, has said since were known to be illegal—when they were passed. The question on the expense was asked by John W. Huggill, K.C., former attorney-general who lost that post because he told the government and the lieutenant-governor that the acts were illegal, before they were passed.

The government's appropriation of $200,000 to finance the "treasury branch" was set on the path to formal validation by a bill in the house to legalize the system, the branches having already been operating for almost 2 months. Propaganda was not overlooked; the bill was accompanied by new attacks on chartered banks, despite the fact that banks have offered every possible co-operation to give the government its opportunity to prove the idea feasible and worthwhile.

NEWS NOTES

A breakdown at the Factory just about noon on Monday kept the mechanical staff and Superintendent Wing on the job for a few hours without a break.

Senor Lobo was a visitor in town the early part of last week making arrangements for the presentations of the Amateur show to be played in the Capital Theatre next Monday.

The Jews are still suffering great persecution in Germany and have been ordered to leave the country as soon as possible. Britain, France, Holland, Canada and other countries are working to arrange a haven for the expelled Jews, who are compelled to leave practically all their belongings in Germany and take only enough for their immediate expenses to a new home.

Steve Farkes, a local Hungarian beet farmer lost $560. from his coat pocket a couple of weeks ago, just after the big beet pay from the Factory. He was settling with some of his beet labor, having left the money in his coat pocket on the bed. When he thought of his money and felt in his pocket it was missing and has not been found. A serious loss indeed.

A short farewell program was held Sunday night for Elder David Meldrum, the following giving short speeches; Miss Velma Meldrum, Ralph Meldrum, W. A. Heninger of the Bishopric and the departing missionary. Mesdames J. O. Strong and Walt Webster gave a piano duet. The program was directed by the Missionary committee.

MORE SNOW OVER WEEK-END

Raymond and district had another very stormy week-end. Snow fell all day Saturday and all day Sunday until dark, it was snowing and blowing from the north. Monday and Tuesday were both chilly with a north breeze blowing, and Tuesday night the wind changed to the west, remaining cool, and just after dinner Wednesday it ed in velocity and commenced warming up just a little, increasing the snow, piling it into drifts and blocking roads which were not any too good from the blizzard of the week before.

No bus arrived Wednesday night, and it is surmised that the drifts near the airport stalled it again and with the snow moving steadily efforts to dig out were more or less useless. This weather is quite unusual for this early in the winter, and we hope it is not a sample of what the next four months will be.

According to political prophets there will be a Dominion election in Canada in the coming year. They base their prediction on the signing of the recent trade treaty which they claim will make good campaign material for the Liberal party. We'll see.

FINISH LAST LINK ALL-WEATHER ROAD

An all-weather road from Winnipeg to Jasper park has at last been realized, thus improving the western network of tourist highways.

Through the completion of graveling of the 58-mile link of the Saskatchewan highway between Waseca and Highgate, just west of North Battleford, the route is now all-weather surfaced from Winnipeg to Jasper park.

The need of finishing this highway has been urged by officials of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association. Now it has been completed, tourists have expressed their delight.

In the opinion of motor club officials, the coming season will see a large volume of tourist traffic over this highway, forming the northern route through Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Completion of this Saskatchewan link is timely, particularly in view of the progress being made on the Jasper-Lake Louise scenic highway & the fact that the Big Bend section of the Trans-Canada highway is being rushed to completion.

Within a short time, Alberta will be the centre of a growing tourist traffic, in the opinion of officials of the A.M.A.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION LETHBRIDGE

CHECKING SOIL DRIFTING IN WINTER

Quite frequently the weekly letters from this Station are devoted to the control of soil drifting. The only apology for this is that some lands are still permitted to drift and there is something that can be done about it.

In the P.F.R.A. work that is being supervised from the Lethbridge Experimental Station, members of the staff visit every part of the district under our supervision. In these visits fields are found in almost every locality that are in danger of drifting. This fall, numbers of fields have actually started to drift.

Since the heavy snowfall in early November, many feel that there is nothing more to do about drifting control until spring but this may not be true. If "Chinook" winds take off the snow, soil drifting may be quite serious during the winter and if so, one of two things might be done to check this drifting. Straw can be scattered almost under any condition where soil is moving and as this year, it might be well to there is a good supply of straw try this method of checking drifts in their early stages.

Another method that is frequently mentioned in our letters is, to single disc land that is starting to move. Land can be disced when only one or two inches of the top soil has thawed. Where the discs are riding on this frozen soil, they vibrate sufficiently to shake off mud that would otherwise adhere to the discs. This makes it possible to disc fields where there are small ponds of water and snow banks as well as bare patches that are drifting.

This letter is written for one purpose, namely, to draw attention to the necessity of watching spots on fields that have started to drift and to check this drift before it reaches serious proportions. This is one winter job that the grain farmer should definitely assign to himself. Winter drifting is not just an act of Providence that cannot be avoided. It has been checked in many instances and can be on almost any field.

ROSEMARY MAN PERFECTS NEW FARM MACHINE

BECHDHOLT AND SONS TO MANUFACTURE MACHINE RIGHT ON FARM

Fred Bechdholt, enterprising farmer at Rosemary, in the Eastern Irrigation District, is branching out into manufacturing farm machinery. He has applied for a Canadian patent for his own invention a land planer or leveller, and told The Bulletin yesterday that he and his sons could put the machine together in their own shop.

The Bechdholt planer was constructed by its inventor after about five years of careful thought. He is still experimenting with several phases and says farmers will be able to use it as a leveller, float and Fresno when he works out a few details. In the meantime, he says, his own

The planer runs on three wheels and is said to turn in a cutting the cutting down of hills and filling of hollows on a piece of land. The blade on his own machine is eight feet wide, but the inventor plans on making six-foot blades if orders call for the smaller type. The overall length also is eight feet.

Mr. Bechdholt believes there will be a good demand for his "planer" in the E. T. D. and is also considering possibilities of a market in the Lethbridge and Taber district.—Brooks Bulletin

Elder Meldrum said good-bye again and left Tuesday morning to take up his missionary work in Eastern Canada. Elder Roberts gave a faith promoting talk and spoke of some of his experiences in the south sea islands. Mrs. Frank took "Faith" as her subject and gave an inspiring talk. Musical numbers were a vocal solo by Myra Dahl and a vocal solo by Miss Marie O'Brien.

NEWS NOTES

It isn't the cost of living that has increased but the number of "necessities."

Mr. and Mrs. Flexhaug were visitors at the home of Mr. Melvin Flexhaug.

Sunday due to the snow and bad roads the bus was an hour late.

Someone must be "a voice crying in the wilderness" to warn of dangers. But one who does it always gets belittled before he wins fame.

All election promises seem to be made of about the same stuff. We remember some very good ones respecting economy in the 1935 Alberta election. We wonder, just how much economy can be shown by the present government. It seems that for every dismissal that has been made from the civil service, there have been two hired. When "experts" on Social Credit, oil, etc., are hired at $1,000 per month, and some of them more than that, it takes a lot of money to pay their wages.

Watch the windows of our local stores for your Xmas suggestions and shop early.

A free land is one where people don't show servile respect for a swell-headed big shot, unless he is a racketeer.

Following the conclusion of the special session of the Alberta legislature the Premier and Treasurer Solon Low left for Ottawa to confer with Dominion officials about the refunding of Alberta's public debt of $160,000,000.
